In the 17th of June, students from cycle 5 IT program, joint program between HCMUS and AUT, New Zealand successfully presented their capstone project.

Capstone project is one of the courses that seniors have to “deal with” before they graduate. Students receive actual requirements from other domestic and international companies and begin to deploy these requirements into software or services. The total time to complete these task is 6 months

Since 100% students qualified the IELTS certificates, they could easily write report and present the whole projects in English in front of the capstone councils from both of the HCMUS professors and AUT professors.

Students shared us that besides the technical knowledge they had learned, the most important skills that they gained from capstone was English skill, communicating skill, negotiating skill, team working, time managing and resolving problems.
